

PREST WILL ASK REMOVAL OF SOME OF EXCISE TAXES

To Ask Congress to Increase Corporate Levies To Aid Treasury

MESSAGE TODAY Will Not Seek Any Increase In Personal Income Taxes

By Robert G. Nixon
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—(INS)—

President Truman will ask Congress today to remove some wartime excise taxes but to increase corporate levies to bring an additional billion dollars into the Federal Treasury annually.

The presidential recommendation is contained in a special tax message that will go to Congress at 12 noon EST.

The message will run to about 4,500 words. White House aides said it will be in simple language without containing complex tables of figures.

As a "business incentive," the President will suggest the reduction of wartime excise levies on transportation of persons and property, telegraph and telephone communications, jewelry, furs, cosmetics and luggage.

The President will not ask for any increase in personal income taxes.

The President seeks a three to four per cent increase in present corporate taxes of 38 per cent. He desires the closing of many loopholes in the present tax structure to bring additional revenue.

Loss of Federal revenue through reduction of certain of the wartime excise taxes is estimated at approximately $750,000,000 annually. Mr. Truman wants this loss made up plus an additional one billion dollars of new revenue.

The presidential recommendation on reduction of excise taxes specifically excludes such items as theater or amusement admissions, liquors, tobacco or cabarets.

Present rates and the former peacetime rates follow:

Transportation: Persons, 15 per cent and none; property, 3 percent (except coal which is 4 cents per short ton) and none; jewelry, furs, cosmetics, luggage, 20 per cent and none.

Telegraph, 25 per cent and 5 per cent on rate.

Activities of Interest To All In The Various Communities

GLEANED BY SCRIBES

Business of a routine nature was transacted at a meeting of the New Britain Parent-Teacher Association on Thursday. Only 15 persons attended the meeting, which was in charge of the president, Herbert West.

Mrs. Edith Godshall, teacher of the grammar school, announced the children had recently held a bake sale, which netted slightly more than $13. Part of this money will be used to purchase books for supplementary reading. When the books arrive, the parents will be given an opportunity to inspect them at the school. There was a tie for the attendance award.

Members took part in a discussion relative to an organized program of play at the school during the noon hours, but no definite action was taken. The group also discussed the Boy Scout movement.

At the conclusion of the business session, a motion picture, "Operation Crossroads," which illustrated tests with the atomic bomb in the Pacific, was shown.

Chalfont borough, for the first time in several years, will have police protection as the result of action taken by borough council, Thursday evening, when it appointed Harold McKee to serve as the community's law enforcement officer.

McKee, whose salary has not as yet been determined, has been a resident of that borough for some years and he will be subject to duty on call.

Attending the meeting for the first time since his election in November was Clyde Derstine, who succeeded his father, John D. Derstine, as a member of council. In the process of re-organizing for the year, Derstine was named chairman of Council's property committee.

Council re-organized by re-electing officers as follows: President, Peter Heilberg; secretary, Ella Worth Clymer, and treasurer, Albert A. Wick.

In addition to Mr. Derstine, the following committee chairmen were named for the year: Finance, Russell Kober; street, Stuart M. Hartzel; light, Alvin F. Moyer; water, George E. Moll, and building and zoning, Stuart M. Hartzel.

Announcement was made that a new chlorinator and an automatic device for turning on and shutting off water at well No. 8 have been installed.

Bills amounting to about $4000 were ordered paid.

REPLIES FOR GIFTS ARE HEART-WARMING

Messages Received By Jr. Red Cross From Children Overseas

DEEP APPRECIATION

Many heart-warming replies have been received from the recipients of the Junior Red Cross friendship boxes which were packed by the school children of Bristol and vicinity for unfortunate children overseas.

One hundred and twenty-eight of these friendship gift boxes were packed in this locality and sent to Red Cross headquarters in Philadelphia for overseas distribution.

Following suggestions for packing, the children took to school useful items such as soap, tooth brushes, toothpaste, wash cloths and combs, to be placed in each box, and filled the remaining spaces with small toys.

To aid recipients in corresponding with the senders, and thus cement international friendship between the children, thank-you letters could be sent on stationery enclosed in each package. These are being forwarded to the different grades as they are received by Philadelphia Red Cross headquarters.

Each answer makes the contribution and work for this project seem more worthwhile for the school children here and abroad, leaders remark. Excerpts from letters which show how these gifts help international understanding follow:

"Although there is a great distance between us, still we feel close to you by our thought and affection." and "Yesterday, while we and our teacher were opening the box, we spoke about our distant friends across the Atlantic who are so dear to us." These were from two school children in Italy. One of the many expressions of gratitude follow: "Your gift box gave me great joy because I am very poor, I have never had the happiness of possessing a toy."

The affirmative was defended by Robert Bonnenberger, Robert Henderson and Patrick Hollenbach. The negative was supported by Donald O'Neill, William O'Brien and James DeMarco. Francis Thomas was chairman. After both sides had set forth their case the judges unanimously sided with the affirmative as having given a better account of themselves. Though unanimous the decision was only by five points.

After the pro's and con's had been set forth the rebuttal for the affirmative was given by R. Bonnenberger while D. O'Neill tried to pick

LARGEST BUCKS JOINT SCHOOL BD. IS BEING SET UP

Comprises 3 Boroughs, 5 Townships In The Central District

TWO HIGH SCHOOLS

Eight Boards Instructed To Begin Budget Preparation For Coming Year

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 23.—The largest joint school board set-up in Bucks County, and said to be the largest in the east, will begin operations on July 1st. Comprising three boroughs and five townships, the board will cover Doylestown, New Britain, Chalfont boroughs; Plumstead, New Britain, Buckingham, Doylestown and Warrington townships.

The eight school boards have been instructed by President Frank H. Trembley, Jr., to begin preparation of their budgets on a joint-operation basis for the coming school year.

This set-up, known as the Central Bucks Joint School Board, will mean a substantial increase in state aid, it is stated. The two high schools in the district are Doylestown and Buckingham.

County Superintendent Charles H. Boehm, who has been advocating joint-operation, said Sell-Perk and Pennsbury received about $40,000 more in appropriation because of a joint set-up. Quakertown is looking around for another district in order to receive additional appropriation.

In session more than three hours, Thursday, the Central Bucks Joint School Board, following acceptance of the preliminary drawings of the architects and acceptance of the engineer's recommendation, moved one big step nearer the new $2,300,000 junior-senior high school.

The new school which will be 800 feet long, 230 feet wide and contain between 82 and 85 units, will be an adaptation of colonial architecture.

The building alone will occupy 16 acres, and the tower will be 95 feet high.

The east wing of the new school will be set within 88 feet of Lafayette street, extending 800 feet westward. Since the school building occupies 16 acres, the board bought 12 more for additional fields and space, bringing the area up to 28 acres. The science wing will be two-story.

Since that, it has been decided to buy 10 acres more for an agricultural outlay and future expansion, and eventually four more, which will include the present exhibition building and frame house site, making a complete total of 42 acres.

The four acre exhibition and frame house site (which is the corner of Lafayette street and Route 202) can be bought for just under $30,000 which is what the Doylestown school board paid for it.

Since Doylestown borough school board contributed $40,000 more towards the new joint school set-up than any other district, it is stated the joint school board is still getting a bargain by paying $30,000 for Driver, John Mixner, Bristol Terrace I, Later Returns To Scene of Accident—Hearing Follows—Young Man Victim Had Moved From Philadelphia to Croydon Three Weeks Ago.

A 19-year-old Croydon youth was instantly killed, and his 16-year-old girl companion suffered a possible fracture of the skull early yesterday morning, when the couple was run down by a motorist on Route 13, about one-fourth mile east of the PRR passenger station at Croydon.

The dead:
William Albright, 409 Sycamore avenue, Croydon.

The injured:
Miss Mabel Holeman, Franklin street, daughter of Mrs. Florence Holeman, Bristol Heights.

The driver of the car, John Mixner, 28, of 14 Jangood Place, Bristol Terrace I, according to Bristol Township Chief of Police Joseph Seader, apparently became panicked after the accident. Mixner, according to Seader, stopped about 50 yards from a point where he says he thought he heard a bump. He walked back what he thought was the proper distance. He saw a pair of white shoes, with roller skates attached, along the roadside, it is stated. Still confused, he continued to his home, where he consulted his brother-in-law, Jules Cerruti, 196 Schumacher Drive, Bristol Terrace I. The pair returned to the scene and found a number of motorists stopped along the highway. They then drove to the Bristol municipal building where they informed police, and Chief of Police Joseph Seader was called.

JUSTICES OF PEACE TO ISSUE HANDBOOK

Decision Made at Meeting Held at Doylestown A Few Evenings Ago

PLAN LADIES' NIGHT

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 23.—The Justices of the peace of Bucks County have decided to republish a J. P.'s handbook. The decision was made at a meeting of the justices attended by 34 members held here a few evenings ago.

President Walter Scheetz named B. Frank Brunner, Doylestown; Horace A. Cooper, Langhorne, and Richard A. Hopkins, Hulmeville, as members of a revision committee.

Justice of the Peace Fred L. Bickel, instructor in a class in criminal law which is being attended by 30 "squires," reported that a pamphlet, "Forms and Instructions for Conducting Preliminary Proceedings before a Justice of the Peace in Criminal Prosecution" was issued while Arthur M. Eastburn was District Attorney.

He suggested that the committee confer with District Attorney Willard S. Curtin, Morrisville, in connection with revising the pamphlet and bringing it up to date. The pamphlet will then be available to minor judiciary members.

A ladies' night banquet will be held some time after Easter, which is April 9, and Horace A. Cooper, Fred L. Bickel and B. Frank Brunner were named members of the committee.

Treasurer Lawrence W. Kepner, Haycock, reported $234 in the treasury. Continued on Page Four Albright was escorting Miss Holeman to her home from the Croydon skating rink, and was walking with traffic on the south side of Bristol Pike.

Mixner, according to Seader, admitted stopping when he thought he had struck someone, but became frightened and fled. Upon his return to the scene and seeing a crowd gathered, he again became confused and with his brother-in-law drove to Bristol police headquarters.

At a hearing before Justice of the Peace M. M. Lawrence, Mixner was charged with involuntary manslaughter and with leaving the scene of an accident. He was committed to the Bucks County Jail at Doylestown in default of $2,000 bail.

Bucks County Coroner J. Alfred Rigby viewed the body of Albright, and Miss Holeman was removed to Nazareth Hospital, Philadelphia, by the Bucks County Rescue Squad. Passing motorists found Miss Holeman in a daze, walking on the highway. The body of Albright was found against a post of a guard rail, off the shoulder of the highway. Albright had been a resident of Croydon for three weeks, having moved from Philadelphia with his parents, who are completing a new dwelling here. Miss Holeman's condition yesterday would not permit police to question her as to the details of the accident.

It is stated that one of Albright's shoes was found on the railroad tracks, 60 feet from his body; and that one of Miss Holeman's shoes was found on the tracks, 30 feet from Albright's body.

The body of Albright was removed to the J. M. Tomlinson funeral home at Cornwells Heights. Albright is survived by his parents and by several step-sisters and step-brothers.

Mixner had left the Croydon diner at about midnight and was en route home.

Injuries of the girl include possible brain concussion, slight bruises of the right hip, brush burns of right cheek and neck, and shock. She informed officials she remembers nothing after being at the skating rink. She complains of headaches.

Mixner, according to Chief Seader, has no driver's license and admits never having had one for 10 years he has been operating motor vehicles. A further hearing will be given him at eight o'clock this evening before Justice Lawrence.

A FLAVOR ALL ITS OWN

Whether the century is half over or not, that 1950 on the calendar continues to spur people to look backward with uncommon interest. Americans especially, surveying their achievements, are beginning to wonder how it is that this nation has emerged as the greatest world power in the course of a few decades. What does America have that has raised it to this eminence?

Ralph Barton Perry, former Harvard professor and philosopher of note, has sensed this question and offered an answer. Writing in the current issue of Philosophy and Phenomenological Research, published by the University of Buffalo for the International Phenomenological Society, he says that Americans are what they are because they believe in the "happy ending."

The melting pot, he says, has "cooked a broth with an unmistakable flavor all its own." It is a flavor combined of buoyance, zest-fulness, resourcefulness and self-reliance. It is so strong that visitors recognize it—and it leaves its imprint not only on successive generations of the native born but on successive waves of immigrants.

Generalizations as broad as these are always open to challenge. But Dr. Perry is entitled to respect when he testifies as an expert witness on our national characteristics. Surely he makes a good point when he supports his theses by saying:

"The meaning of life for the American people is not revealed in the tragedy or in the comedy of manners but in the melodrama, with its dash and excitement, its pursuits and hairbreadth escapes, its black villains and snow-white heroines—and above all its happy endings."

Just the other day W. A. Brady died, and we were reminded that his greatest success was "Way Down East." Of course critics for decades have deplored American literature because almost invariably plays and novels end happily. But perhaps it will be just as well if we never grow up to like other fare. We're doing pretty well as it is.

EMBARRASSED

Waters where the "Mighty Mo" went aground are marked as clearly as 42nd street and Fifth avenue in New York. It is difficult to understand how a battle-wagon equipped with several carloads of navigation instruments and navigating talent went aground. Navy sources said she was on a maneuvering problem.

But there she sat, the pride of the fleet, the Japanese surrender ship, the President's pet, 45,000 tons of nautical embarrassment.
Oh, the calamity! Oh, Sherman!

There is imminent danger that the reds will soon be hogging the on end has been traversed by bar-tons.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

The Clifford Departure

Washington, Jan. 23.

able habits established by the Roosevelts during their years of power, that of capitalizing the White House connection for personal pecuniary advantage continues under the Truman Administration. It is true, members of the Truman family have not individually profited in the brazen and shameless way that marked the individual Roosevelts. For that they deserve credit.

NEVERTHELESS, intimate members of the current White House
"inner circle" have begun to follow in the seductive footsteps of the Roosevelt insiders. These, after a period of enthusiastic advocacy of the redistribution of wealth theory and other similar New Dealish notions, decided that the smart thing to do with their accumulated influence was to step out and gather in some wealth from those who had it without waiting for an exceedingly dubious redistribution in the Roosevelt Administration.
The most notable of these "forward-looking" men was Mr. Thomas C.

gifted speech writer for the President and handy man about the White House. In the Truman Administration, Mr. Clark Clifford, Truman's speech writer, adviser and close friend, is the principal White House figure to "do a Corcoran." As in the case of Mr. Corcoran, friendly journalists rushed to justify his entrance (with his presidential intimacy as chief asset) into the lucrative Washington law field.

IT WAS unfortunate that these friendly journalists pictured Mr.
Corcoran as "a great, unselfish public servant" just before he quit the public service and hotly began to chase dollars wherever he could find them. Mr. Clifford has not left his literary eulogists out on such a limb as that, and they have done a good job of grooming him. He is portrayed as a noble young man who made a "great financial sacrifice" to serve his country when he gave up a $30,000-a-year law practice in St. Louis to become Mr.
Truman's aide at a miserable $12,- 000. It is said he could not live on that—or even on the $20,000 a year he now receives. In order to pay his debts and take care of his family, he is now forced to leave the public service and open a law firm here. The estimate is that with his White House connections he will make a minimum of $100,000 a year. The moral is that we cannot expect to keep big men in the Government service unless we pay them more.

OF COURSE, all that is nonsense.
Neither Mr. Corcoran nor Mr.
Clifford made any financial sacrifice when they entered the public service—quite the contrary. Those in position to know the facts about Mr. Clifford's St. Louis law practice say that his law activities were largely restricted to damage cases; that he made about half $12,000 riding, driving, golf and social enjoyment. The following were elected: President, George K. Johnson; vice-presidents, Dr. Henry Lovett, Langhorne; Joseph R. Grundy, Bristol; secretary, Price I. Patton; treasurer, Alfred Marshall, Langhorne; board of governors, Charles F. Warwick, A. Haller Gross, Samuel C. Eastburn, William B. Parry, Edward W. Patton, Howard C.

Johnson, Theodore Phillips, Howard Reisnyder, Jesse Lukens, J. Howard Marshall, Charles L. Taylor, and Charles Matthews.

An option on a house at Langhorne has been secured. The club

Giving Up Everything For Child May Make Him Selfish

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

A RULE at sea is "Women and children first." The rule at home is "Children first."

For all ages and under nearly all conditions this home rule is observed about as faithfully as the sea rule. When properly limited to the physical and moral welfare of the child, it is a good rule. However, many of its applications are very bad.

Wonderful indeed are the father and mother who deny themselves an evening out when going out would mean dragging the baby or tot along, exposing him to disease and upsetting his good habits; or the mother who will choose rather to miss an afternoon tea or bridge party than to let her child come home from school to find nobody there; or the parent who might give up all sorts of things he or she would rather do or gracefully drop what he or she is doing in order to read to the tot, answer his questions, make and do things with him; or the parents who are never too busy to listen to the child of any age when he wants to talk over matters of serious importance to him; his hopes and fears, joys or sorrows; or to set the stage, when reasonably possible, for him to enjoy creative fun with other playmates and peers.

Help the Child
Wonderful, too, are the father or mother who take time to help the child find materials and books for his school assignments and look up matters with him in magazines, books or encyclopedias, even going with him to the library for such purposes; or who will go to great personal inconvenience to fulfill a promise to the child.

Also the child, whether two, ten or seventeen, should be first in terms of courtesy to him by his parents and treatment as a person by them.
But the child should not be first in all things. When parents constantly deny themselves just to satisfy the whims and growing wants of what is mere luxury of the youngster or of what is known to be harmful to this child, they make him selfish.

Another Person
The child also needs to learn early to wait to a reasonable degree, as when his parent is talking to another person face to face or on the telephone.

And we want him to talk and be heard, but also to let others talk and to listen while they talk.
As the child grows through childhood and adolescence he should learn of the needs of other persons of the family.

If always his wishes are immediately gratified—in purchases of clothing, means of amusements or in money he desires to spend—without regard to the needs and wishes of the rest of the family; if his wishes come first and his parents' wishes come last, he grows more and more selfish.
There is a decided limit to how often his wishes should be fulfilled regardless of the family income.

A Choice
In the usual home today, if it is a choice between a permanent for the mother or for the daughter (12 to 16), the daughter gets the permanent. If it is a choice between a new coat or suit for father or mother on the one hand and son or daughter on the other, the youth gets the new garment. I wonder how many parents are wearing last year's model in clothing so the son or daughter might possess the latest; how many parents walk to work or market or stay home at night so their child might drive the car to school or on a date?

Then we wonder why there are so many selfish children and so few who feel and show gratitude, consideration and respect toward their parents. But why condemn the children?

THERE was a time when what Mr.
Corcoran has done and Mr. Clifford proposes to do would have seemed pretty dreadful. But the Roosevelt destroyed the ethics that once restricted White House exploitation and knocked down most of the surrounding moral standards. The result is that what twenty years ago would have been regarded as improper on the part of the individual is now considered not only correct but actually can be used by a certain class of writers to lecture the American people upon their alleged faults of omission. The case of Mr.
Clifford is made more striking by the assertion that it was he who "worked night and day to persuade Mr. Truman his only chance to avoid ruin of his political fortunes was to embrace the so-called Fair Deal." In brief, without Mr. Clifford, there would be no "Fair Deal" today. "With Clifford gone," his eulogists cry, "what will happen to the 'Fair Deal' is anybody's guess." Well, considering its appalling cost and the direction in which it is taking us, plenty will say that if Mr. Clifford, acting as the Truman political strategist, is responsible for the "Fair Deal," the country could well afford to give him many times his $100,000 minimum to get out.

FUNCHY PARAGRAPHS

Corn Bread Surprise

Corn bread turns up with ham on top in this different dish. Cut a ham slice into wedge-shaped pieces and brown on both sides in a frying-pan.
Place the wedges in a baking dish and pour corn bread batter over them. Bake in a 400 degrees F. oven until the ham and corn bread are done, about 30 minutes. Serve while very hot topped with a spicy tomato sauce.

Savory Spareribs

Spareribs braised in a sweet-sour sauce are ideal for these wintry days. For this tangy sauce combine meat stock, vinegar and brown sugar and season with bay leaf, thyme and cloves.

LITTLE SLICES

Brown Baked Beans with Bacon

2 cans beans (without tomato sauce)
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon dry mustard
4 slices bacon
Catsup, brown sugar

Mix Worcestershire sauce and mustard with beans. Place beans in large greased casserole or 9 inch square pan. Lay bacon strips on top of beans and drizzle catsup over them. Top beans with brown sugar to a depth of about 1/4 inch. Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 20 minutes. Uncover and bake another 20 minutes.
(Serves 4.)

Change-About Meat Pies

A small investment which gives big returns at the dinner table is the meat pie. Serve this time favorite as Grandmother used to make it or use one of the following suggestions to give it a slightly different dress. To make a good meat pie, filling, flour meat cubes, brown in hot fat in a skillet, add water or broth, cover, and simmer until tender, 1 1/2 to 2 hours. Then dress up the pie in one of the following ways. 1. Cheese biscuit meat pie—Add a can of condensed chicken soup to the meat, thicken, and pour into a greased casserole. Cut out small biscuit circles from the dough made by mixing grated cheese and milk with prepared biscuit mix. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees F.) for 20 minutes or until biscuits are brown. 2. Spicy meat pie—Add some diced salami, chopped onion, and cooked carrots to the thickened liquid and meat. Pour into an unbaked pie shell. Top with lattice pastry strips and bake in a hot oven (450 degrees F.) 30 to 40 minutes. During the baking time, pour bouillon through the slits to keep the filling moist. If necessary, accompaniments are important. They're the way to make chili dinners varied and interesting.

For instance, Reba Staggs, home economist, suggests serving potato chips with chili. Or for a change, spread crackers with tangy cheese, then slip them in the broiler just long enough to melt the cheese. Serve the crackers straight from the broiler.

Still another idea is serving chili, thick with ground beef, over rice in an unusual chop suey manner. On another occasion, chili may be accompanied with toasted corn bread.

In a menu with chili a crisp salad is desirable. A tossed vegetable salad or cole slaw are both ideal, or perhaps a relish tray.

Also in order is a light dessert. A bowl of colorful fruits will be welcomed, accompanied by a plate filled with various cheeses. To vary, a gelatin fruit salad may be served.

Paragraphs of interest to those interested in the Bristol Young Men's Christian Association.

This evening the "Y" council will meet to consider final plans for a St. Valentine's dance. The Church basketball league will play from 8:15 to 10.

Tomorrow evening another basketball double header will be featured. At 6:30 the Y.M.C.A. youth team will play the rugged Soby Post Cadets. The "Y" boys under the coaching of Y.M.C.A. director Frank J. Fuoco are gradually improving. Last week they won 2 games, one from the Rohm & Haas Boys Club and another from the 1st Ward Boys Club. The adult "Y" team also continued their winning ways as they subdued the Crockett A. C. They will oppose the Cornwells Owls at 7:45. The Owls are managed by "Reggie" Somers, former Bensalem High athlete.

Wednesday evening, beginning at 8 p. m., will be regular girls night at the "Y". Something new will be tried this evening. Each girl member of the "Y" and Tri-Hi-Y will be permitted to bring one guest. All boys guests may be entertained in the lobby by their escorts. They may dance, play ping pong, and enjoy the other games in the room. Girl guests may visit either the lobby or the gym. In the gym basketball and other sports activities will be played by girls only. Last Wednesday night the girls in attendance held a meeting. Plans for future activities such as roller skating, hay rides, and swimming were discussed. Sue Ceruti and Lucy Rehder were made public relations agents for the Bristol Twp. school, and Joan Braker and Shirley Morrell were made public relations agents for the Bristol High school. These agents will keep girl Tri-Hi-Y members in school posted on girl activities at the Y. M. C. A.

On Thursday night the Church basketball league will occupy the gym.

Friday evening the gym and lobby will be open to any Y.M.C.A. member.

F. C. Snyder Observes Nintetieth Anniversary

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Jan. 23.—Franklin Curtis Snyder, believed to be one of the oldest residents of lower Bucks county, celebrated his 90th birthday anniversary on Saturday.

A dozen and a half American beauty roses were placed in the family church—Edgington Presbyterian—yesterday by his two daughters and son, the Misses Cecelia and Elva Snyder, and Elmer Snyder, Cornwells Heights.

Mr. Snyder remembers his mother having planned a piece of black cloth on the American flag at their home to mark the death of Abraham Lincoln.

At present Mr. Snyder is recovering from a recent fall, but waits impatiently for arrival of spring weather so he may work in his vegetable garden. His trade was that of carpenter and builder.

Mr. Snyder is a staunch Republican, and still hopes "for the tide to turn to a more business-like administration of national affairs based on principle, integrity and private enterprise."

Born in what is now Torresdale Manor, Mr. Snyder has resided within a radius of three miles of that community throughout his lifetime.

Supervising principal Robert K. Shafer said at least 15 school buses will be needed and Doylestown township director William A. Christman urged using the "exhibition" building to repair the buses.

Doylestown school board president H. John Rosenberger, who explained that Doylestown borough is "dickering" for the site as a place to store equipment and supplies urged the joint board to make a decision.

Following a discussion, the joint board went on record as indicating an intent to purchase the four acre tract which will become a part of the new school site. Only 16 acres, the exact amount the building will be located on, will be deeded to the State Public School Authority. President Tremble said.

The "Exhibition" building site and Doylestown is still giving $10,000 more.

Coal stokers, two boilers, using 1178 tons, would cost $22,550 a year to operate; coal stokers, three boilers, 1336 tons, $22,502 a year coal bill. If oil is used, it will take 193,000 gallons at a cost of $18,967.

President Tremble, who hopes building operations will begin in April, reported that the cost will be about $23,470 a unit or a total of $2,300,000.

Architect Dunlap, reporting on the test borings or pits, said they encountered no water whatsoever and that the site had a fine bottom.

Engineer Furlow, who said electricity needs have been cleared with the Phila. Electric Company, pointed out that sewer and water connections and plans will hold up the beginning of the foundation unless Doylestown Borough Council authorities and engineers cooperate quickly.

"We can't go ahead with any school sewer plans or water lines until we know exactly from blueprints what the borough's plans and capacities are," said Furlow. H. John Rosenberger was authorized to speed up potential needs and service and cooperation between borough and school engineers.

Dr. Joseph H. Kershner, treasurer, reported, $14,000 paid to the architect so far.

About 60 school directors and others attended the meeting, in many cases, the entire board was represented.

Architect John S. Carver, praising Dr. J. Edward Smith, Doylestown supervising principal who will be the superintendent of the new Central Bucks Junior-Senior High, said: "Our firm has never had anybody who worked as hard as Dr. Smith did or who gave us as much information and plans concerning the exact location of every detail and equipment concerning the operation of the new school. Dr. Smith leaves nothing to guesswork and it certainly has made it easier. His plans show every bit of class room and unit equipment and demands."

Edmunds Dunlap, John S. Carver, John D. Dunlap, architects, and John Furlow, consulting engineer, submitted the following breakdown: General construction, $666,000; heating, $256,000; plumbing, $123,000; electrical contract, $155,000 and permanent equipment, $100,000.

Mr. Furlow, discussing the heating which will comprise radiant, steam and convectors, said there will be seven heating zones. He suggested Number 5 oil as the most economical.

The Weight-Watching Season

To take inches off your waist, a famous New York salon recommends this cord with loops at the end. Touch toes with alternating hands.

By HELEN FOLLETT

THIS is the season of the year when one must be a weight watcher. Those nice little cakes and bonbons offered at the party are fatal to the woman who is inclined to be bilious. If you be long to this contingent, want to take a nip off the waistline and delete tonnage, be sure to decide upon a sane and safe method of reducing. Don't make up your mind to starve to death. You will not only imperil your health, but you'll be as cross as two sticks and your family won't be able to live with you.

A visit to the family physician is well worth the time, the trouble and the few dollars it costs. He will know what should be done, will tell you in few words. He will order you to cut down on those food elements that build the bumps, but not to cut them out entirely. They include cereals, sweets, fats, especially cream and butter. Fried foods are not for you.

Lean Meat

You can have lean meat, fish that is not fat and other sea food, poultry, vegetables—preferably those that grow above ground—fruit, fruit juices, buttermilk, unsweetened lemonade, cottage cheese.

The intake of food must be such as to keep the body fit and to supply energy, but not so much that a single fat cell will be created.

Don't expect to lose more than one pound a week; it is safer to progress slowly to the goal of slenderness. Don't fall for any fad diet; if you do you may suffer from a vitamin deficiency and beauty troubles will descend upon you.

It is wise, even when reducing slowly, to keep the face well creamed so that the tissues will not soften and fine lines appear. Do that at night. Every morning dash cold water on your sacred phiz, apply an astringent, letting it dry on.

A brisk walk every day won't do a bit of harm; instead it will do a lot of good for your figure, your face and your disposition. And a daily series of calisthenics will help, too.

neath the first floor level of the one-story building for 250 or 300 bicycles will cost $30,000, if the cycles are to be stored in the main building.

President Tremble pointed out that the $30,000 saved on the bicycle excavation pit, could be used in purchasing the exhibition building site and preparations made to provide parking space for the bicycles in that area.

When President Tremble learned that fluorescent lighting instead of the conventional incandescent lighting would cost $10,000 more, he said: "That's one 'ten grand' we will save." An engineer explained that fluorescent lighting is more modern, more expensive to install but less expensive to maintain, but that it would take several years to pay back the initial installation cost of $10,000.

Architect John S. Carver, praising Dr. J. Coal stokers, two boilers, using 1178 tons, would cost $22,550 a year to operate; coal stokers, three boilers, 1336 tons, $22,502 a year coal bill. If oil is used, it will take 193,000 gallons at a cost of $18,967.

President Tremble, who hopes building operations will begin in April, reported that the cost will be about $23,470 a unit or a total of $2,300,000.

Architect Dunlap, reporting on the test borings or pits, said they encountered no water whatsoever and that the site had a fine bottom.

President Scheetz named Linford D. Gross, Blooming Glen; Paul F. Yoder, Southerton, R. D.; and Dr. Arthur Gross, Danboro, as members of the auditing committee.

Secretary I. Elizabeth Jones, Jamison, reported excellent attendance at the criminal law school which is held each week here for the benefit of the newly elected squires and the others who want to brush-up on the new procedure. More than 30 are enrolled.

Leopholes the President is seeking to plug in the present tax law include taxation of tax-exempt organizations on enterprises operated by them in competition with tax-paying private businesses.

One of the special targets is the "lease-back" arrangement. In many such instances, big universities have bought retail stores and other enterprises and then leased the businesses to their original owners.

HULMEVILLE

At the meeting of the Youth Fellowship of Neshaminy Methodist Church, held at the home of "Tudy" Japchen, Middletown township, Friday evening, "Betty" Bilger presided. The young folks planned a Valentine party to be held at the home of Alice Jane Rongley, Middletown township, on February 10th. A social time and refreshments followed.

Over the week-end Mrs. Harold H. Haefner and sons, "Bobby" and Fred, and Fred Conde, of Allendale, visited relatives in Hulmeville.

Condition of Gladys Phillips' eye, which was injured when a stick penetrated it last week, is improving.

A covered dish luncheon will be conducted on Wednesday at 12:30 in Neshaminy Methodist Church social hall. On that day members of the Ladies' Aid Society will clean the china closets and take inventory of contents.

Championship Bensalem Team Honored by Club

PENNDIEL, Jan. 23.—The Bucks County-Lincoln Highway Kiwanis Club was host to the Bensalem high school championship football team at its weekly meeting at the "Royal Gardens," Bensalem township, last week.

Immediate Past-President Paul Sauerbray arranged a splendid program for the 17 letter men of the Bensalem squad. A large trophy was given the team to adorn the school show case. A Kurtz King, supervising principal, accepted the trophy on behalf of the team. Coaches J. E. Messenger and M. J. Van Horn praised the men for their splendid comeback to win the lower Bucks county championship for Bensalem.

Special guests were Wayne ("Inky") Schneider, quarterback; and Elwood McKenzie, next year's captain, of the West Chester State Teachers' College, who told the boys the difference between high school and college football. They also presented motion pictures showing two of their best games this past season.

Entertainers were Robert Brown and several television stars from the Paul Whiteman teen-age club, who gave the team and also members of Kiwanis a program of songs, tap-dancing and instrumental solos.

FRANKLIN IN SURPRISE WIN DEFEATS PROFY

In one of the biggest upsets in the history of the Bristol Basketball League, the Franklin A. C. handed the Profy team a 64-49 drubbing last night on the Rohm and Haas floor.

The defeat, first of the season for Profy's, ended the five-game winning streak of the radiomen and tightened the league race considerably as Franklin moved into second place, one game away from the league-leaders.

The surprising manner in which the Franklin team outplayed their foe amazed the fans, especially in the final quarter when the "Frankies" began to cut the cords from all angles of the court and outpace Profy's to score at will. Franklin made 24 points in this season while holding Profy's to 12, six of which were made by "Easy" Mama.

The big gun of the Profy team, "Johnny" Pindar, was stilled most of the night. It took Pindar 19 minutes before he made a foul point and 24 minutes of the tilt had elapsed before he basked his first field goal. To hold Pindar to eight points in one tilt is actually stopping the player who has averaged over 20 points per game.

TULLYTOWN GOES DOWN TO DEFEAT BEFORE R. & H. FIVE

Tullytown A. C. was given its third straight defeat of the Bristol Basketball League last night when it lost an overtime tilt to the Rohm & Haas team, 61-55, on the latter's wooden way.

Tullytown passed up an opportunity to win the game in regulation time when, with the score 48-48, Coach Joe Napoli was fouled with three seconds remaining to be played. Napoli's charity toss hit the rim and bounced out. The rebound was tapped to Napoli and again he shot for a field goal. But the ball did the same trick as it hit on the inside of the rim and bounced out, to send the game into the extra session.

Rohm & Haas had the lead from the start in the overtime period, as both "Bill" Mobley and Ben Samuel put in fielders, and soon the other players caught on, to give the chemical mixers their six-point margin.

Everitt was high for the winners with 18 points, while Roy Lynch made 15 for Tullytown.

Why Wait For Breakfast?
Bacon Any Time

Why reserve bacon for breakfast? Bacon is one of the most adaptable of meats for homemakers to serve, says Reba Staggs, home economist. Any hour of the day this crisp, smoky meat may add a savory touch to meals.

As for breakfast, bacon is joined with scrambled eggs for a lunch-time treat. To complete the menu, fried potatoes and a green vegetable are added.

Bacon - noodle scramble presents another wise use of bacon in a main luncheon dish. Bacon strips are cooked in the usual manner. Cooked noodles are combined with beaten eggs, seasoned, then cooked in the bacon drippings until done. This combination makes an attractive serving with the noodles placed in the center of a chop platter and surrounded by the bacon strips.

For sandwiches, chopped cooked bacon is rightly combined with peanut butter, cheese or chopped prunes. Open-faced sandwiches may be slipped in the broiler just long enough to heat them.

When it comes to seasoning, bacon along with its drippings is perfect for green beans, broccoli, spinach or corn pudding.
